Use of Cookies and Other Automatic Information Gathering Technologies

What are cookies?

Every time you use the Services (e.g., access a Service webpage, or navigate to a specific location within the Service mobile app), we collect personal information and non-personal information (as discussed above) regarding that use. For example, to improve our Services, we collect how, when, and which parts of the Services or their features you use, which social media platforms you connect to the Services, and when, how, and what you post to the social media platforms through the Services. Also, we may use your device's unique identifier (UDID) or other unique identifiers to assist us in collecting and analyzing this data.

To assist us in collecting and storing non-personal Information regarding your use of the Services, we may employ a variety of technologies, including "cookies." Cookies are small data files that are placed on your computer or mobile device when you visit a website. Cookies are widely used by website operators to make their websites work, or to work more efficiently, as well as provide reporting information.

We use both "session ID cookies" and "persistent cookies." Session ID cookies are used to store information while a user is logged into our Services and expire when the user closes his/her browser. Persistent cookies are used to make tasks like logging into the Services easier for returning users by remembering a user's login information. Persistent cookies stay on a user's hard drive from one session to the next.

Cookies set by TNM are called "first party cookies." Cookies set by parties other than us are called "third party cookies". Third party cookies enable third party features or functionality to be provided on or through the Site (e.g. like advertising, interactive content and analytics). The parties that set these third-party cookies can recognize your computer both when it visits the website in question and when it visits certain other websites.

Why do we use cookies?

We use first party and third-party cookies for several reasons. Some cookies are required for technical reasons for our Sites to operate, and we refer to these as "essential" or "strictly necessary" cookies. Other cookies also enable us to track and target the interests of our users to enhance the experience on our Sites, collect information for record keeping purposes and to make it easier to navigate the Services. Third parties serve cookies through our Sites for advertising, analytics and other purposes. This is described in more detail below.

The following describes the specific types of first and third-party cookies served through all our Sites, the purposes they perform, and, if applicable, your ability to opt out of such use. You can opt out of certain cookies as noted below using the toggles found in YOUR PRIVACY CHOICES link found in our site footer.

Essential: These cookies are necessary for the website to operate and cannot be switched off. They are typically set in response to actions made by you, such as logging in, filling out forms, or setting privacy preferences. We use them to prevent fraudulent activity and improve security. Without these cookies, certain services on the site would not function properly.

Brightcove (<https://www.brightcove.com/>)
Laravel PHP (<https://laravel.com/>)

Because these cookies are strictly necessary to deliver the Site to you, you cannot refuse them. Note: We use Brightcove to power our video player. These cookies are essential for our subscription services to function, as they manage video delivery, security, and playback stability. Analytics are collected in aggregate only and are not used to identify individual viewers.

Performance: These cookies help us measure and improve site performance by collecting information about how visitors interact with the site, such as page views, traffic sources, and usage patterns. All information is aggregated and used in a way that does not directly identify you.

Google Analytics 4 (GA4)

If you refuse these, we will be unable to track site performance or use visit data to improve your experience.

Functional: These cookies allow the website to remember choices you make and provide enhanced, more personalized features. Disabling these cookies may affect the availability or functionality of certain features.

Please note, if you refuse these, certain personalized features -- such as saved preferences or specific site tools -- may no longer function correctly.

cookies: These cookies and pixels are used by us and our service providers to serve and measure the effectiveness of the advertisements displayed on our Site. They allow us to attribute your visit to the specific advertisement that brought you here, help us measure our performance, and ensure you receive offers rather than ads for services you have already joined.

We use Google Advertising (<https://ads.google.com/home/>) to track advertisements and measure Site visits and conversions.

If you refuse, we will be unable to connect your site visit to the ads you saw on search engines or social media. This limits our ability to measure our marketing performance and may result in you seeing repetitive or generic ads for our services even after you have subscribed.

Alternatively, please click on the relevant opt-out link below:

What about other advertising technologies, like web beacons, pixels, or tags?

Cookies are not the only technology we use to recognize or track visitors to a website. To assist us in collecting and storing non-personal information, we may use other, similar technologies from time to time, including “web beacons,” “pixels,” or “tags” (sometimes called “tracking pixels” or “clear gifs”). A web beacon, pixel or tag is a small, usually- transparent image placed on a web page that allows the operator of that image, which may be the operator of the website you visit or a third party, to read or write a Cookie. These are tiny graphics files that contain a unique identifier that enable us to recognize when someone has visited our Sites or opened an e-mail that we have sent them. This allows us, for example, to count visitors, to monitor how users navigate and interact with the Services, to count how many emails that were sent were actually opened or to count how many particular articles or links were actually viewed. In many instances, these technologies are reliant on cookies to function properly, and so declining cookies will impair their functioning.

HTML5

We use HTML5 in some of our applications, including in our mobile website for the iPhone or iPad. HTML5 has browser web storage that does not rely on traditional browser cookies. HTML5 cookies are not stored in a browser “cookies” file and can be used to track users across websites. To our knowledge there is currently no known way for a user of a mobile device to remove HTML5 tracking and storage.

Embedded Scripts

An embedded script is programming code that is designed to collect information about your interactions with the Services such as the links you click on. The code is temporarily downloaded onto your device used to access Services from our web server or a third-party service provider, is active only while you are connected to the Services and is deactivated or deleted thereafter.

E-tags/cache browsers/web logs

Like most standard website servers, we log IP addresses (a unique number assigned to every computer on the internet) and device identification in order to improve security, analyze trends and administer the Services. We may track your movement within the Services, the pages from which you were referred, access times and browser types. This information may include the browser you are using, the internet address from which you linked to our Services, the operating system of your computer, the unique IP address of the computer or device identification from the mobile device that you used to access our Services and usage and browsing habits. We use this information in to gauge the effectiveness, usage, and popularity of our Services, track information for statistical purposes, help diagnose and troubleshoot server malfunctions, analyze trends, track user movement in the aggregate, and gather broad demographic information. We may also use individual information we collect through web logs to send you targeted offers and other communications.

Do you serve targeted advertising?

We may use advertising technology from our third-party service providers to collect information about your use of the Services to serve more relevant advertising to you. To serve our ads, we use a variety of third-party advertising service providers, including networks, data exchanges, ad servers, analytics providers and others. These third-party service providers may use advertising technology to send directly to your Device the advertisements and links that appear on the Services. They automatically receive your Device identifier when this happens. Their tools may also limit the number of times you see the same advertisement and help measure the effectiveness of our advertising campaigns.

These third-party service providers may also use cookies, pixels, web beacons, tags, or related advertising technologies to gather information from your use of and interactions with the Services to serve targeted, interest-based advertisements to you on third party websites and applications. Third party service providers may serve cookies or use pixels, web beacons, tags, or related advertising technologies on your computer or mobile device to serve advertising through our Sites. For instance, these third-party service providers may use information about your visits to this Site and other websites in order to provide relevant advertisements about goods and services that you may be interested in.

These third-party service providers may also employ advertising technology that is used to measure the effectiveness of advertisements. This can be accomplished by them using cookies, pixels, web beacons, or tags to collect information about your visits to this Site and other sites in order to provide relevant advertisements about goods and services of potential interest to you. Cookies, pixels, web beacons, tags, and similar technologies may collect information automatically about your use of the Services, such as when you access a webpage or complete a purchase on our Site. Any information received by such technologies are subject to the applicable third-party technology provider's privacy policy. The information collected through this process is considered non-personal information and thereby does not enable us or them to identify your name, contact details or other personally identifying details unless you choose to provide these. Some cookies and similar third-party technologies may allow you to opt out of certain collection and/or uses of your information. You can read more about the privacy practices of the cookies and similar third-party technologies that we use (and/or that we reserve the right to use) here:

- Google (<https://policies.google.com/privacy>)

How can I control cookies?

You have the right to decide whether to accept or reject cookies. You can exercise your cookie preferences for certain cookies by clicking on the appropriate opt-out links provided in the cookie table above.

You can set or amend your web browser controls to accept or refuse cookies. If you choose to reject cookies, you may still use our website though your access to some functionality and areas of our website may be restricted. As the means by which you can refuse cookies through your web browser controls vary from browser-to-browser, you should visit your browser's help menu for more information. Please note as this opt out is cookie based it will only affect the specific browser or Device on which the opt out is applied. If you would like to find out more information about managing cookies, go to <http://www.allaboutcookies.org/>. To learn how to manage privacy and storage settings for your local browser storage, please refer to the end user documentation for your browser.

Some of the advertising service providers may be members of the Network Advertising Initiative, which offers a single location to opt-out of ad targeting from member companies. If you opt out of receiving targeted ads in this manner, you will continue to receive advertising messages, but they will not be customized to you based on your use of the Services and third-party sites.

If you would like more information about advertisers' use of advertising technologies and about your option not to accept these cookies, go to <http://www.networkadvertising.org>. If you would like to learn more about how interest-based information is collected and to know your choices about not having information used in this manner, go to <http://www.aboutads.info>. Some newer mobile device operating systems allow you to limit the use of information to deliver interest-based advertising in mobile applications. You can check the settings on your mobile Device for such options in your mobile Devices' operating system. Alternatively, you may wish to download the TrustE mobile application and/or the Digital Alliance "App Choices" mobile application and follow the instructions provided. To find out more information, please visit <http://www.aboutads.info/choices/> or <http://www.youronlinechoices.com>.
